33 Biblical One Another Verses

Love the Lord your God with all your heart and with all your soul and with all your mind. This is the first and greatest commandment. And the second is like it: Love your neighbor as yourself.
(Matthew 22:36-39)

Called to Love & Serve

The Greek word allelon means "one another, each other; mutually, reciprocally," and it occurs 100 times in the New Testament. As "members of one another" (Romans 12:5, Ephesians 4:25), we are created for relationship – first with God then with each other. Community is foundational to who we are. As the Body of Christ, we are called to love and serve one another, to sacrificially put each other's needs ahead of our own.

But that's not always easy, especially if we've been hurt in community. Yet the first five words of Matthew 22:36 say, "Love the Lord your God ..." Jesus wants us to come to Him first, to be strengthened by Him, to be so filled that it is His love flowing through us into others.

The Heart of Community

The Biblical one another verses invite us to take the next courageous step into authentic community, but it begins with sacrifice, with listening, first to God then to one another, and as God prompts with sharing pieces of our stories with one another.

Joni Eareckson Tada wrote this about a one another friend: "We've been through the same school of suffering. Her tears are real. And so, I am free to share mine with her. And in this way, we encourage one another. We both grieve; we both cry; we both confess our wrestlings, but we cling to Christ. We quote each other Scripture; we pray and bless one another; share our courage and victories."
